House Republicans Announce New Committee Chairman

BOISE, Idaho – Representative Greg Chaney is the new Chairman of the House Judiciary, Rules and Administration Committee. He replaces Representative Thomas Dayley, who is leaving the Idaho Legislature, after being appointed the Idaho State Executive Director for the United States Department of Agriculture’s Farm Service Agency.

“It’s an honor and an incredible responsibility to chair a committee that helps in protecting the rights of every Idahoan,” said Rep. Chaney. “It’s a duty I don’t take lightly, and one I am excited to take on.”

Chaney is serving his third term in the Idaho House of Representatives representing Legislative District 10. He is a champion of reforms to criminal justice, elections law, and taxation.

Chaney practices law in Caldwell, where he makes his home with his wife, Sarah, and their six children.
