House Republican Leadership Continues Town Hall Series in Rexburg

BOISE, Idaho – House Republican Leadership and members of the House GOP Caucus from Districts 34-35 will hold a town hall to better connect with their constituents in Eastern Idaho.

“This town hall series has been very informative so far, and we look forward to continuing it,” said Speaker of the House Scott Bedke, who will be at the town hall. “Meeting and connecting with the people we represent is critical to serving them.”

The Caucus will hold the town hall from 6-8pm on Monday, September 16 at the Rexburg City Hall. After a brief welcome, the Representatives will take written questions. They encourage their constituents and the media to attend. They also encourage early questions to be sent to info@idahohouserеспублиcancaucus.com.

“We’ll focus on the issues that matter most to Eastern Idahoans: education, economic development, and roads,” said Caucus Chair Rep. Megan Blanksma, who will also be attending. “But, we also want to hear directly from those folks on how we can help them with the challenges they face every day.”

Attending

Speaker of the House, Scott Bedke
Majority Caucus Chair, Megan Blanksma
Rep. Doug Ricks (Rexburg)
Rep. Jerald Raymond (Menan)
